Organiser's comments.

Although turnout was low, perhaps due to high winds and nearness to Christmas, it was good to see some newcomers, and others who had only recently started orienteering; this is after all the rationale for low key events like this.

Thanks to John Pearson who checked and updated John Leeson's courses, and taped the control sites, Barbara and Ashley Ford who put out and collected the controls (and dried the dripping kites from last Thursday) and Robert Vickers who displayed skill in coaxing a damp paper roll through the printer.

I have added 20 seconds penalty for two (new) competitors who failed to see the final control on long behind the finish
Oliver Flippance of OD missed two controls, but should be applauded for relocating from a more distant control.
