Snow, snow and more snow!! Luckily it never arrived and conditions were very good for orienteering.

When putting the controls out in daylight of course, I was getting worried that I had made the courses too easy. So I was getting rather worried when the first few competitors came in having only found a few controls. A number of people had problems concerning control "5, NE crag". The holly had grown over the crags and hid the NE one very well. In daylight I could see through the holly into the crag, but at night...maybe not? For a night event that was a bit of bad planning on my part for which I apologise and hope it did not spoil your enjoyment too much.

A number of new and people recent to the sport took part and acquitted themselves very well and seemed to enjoy it. Well done those folks.

Again much thanks to the control collectors and others who helped, this included Alex, Andy H, Andy W, David W, Marian, John L, Robert R and also Kerstin for taking the kit back. Thanks to their efforts we managed to get to the pub in time for food.
