

MIDWEEK NIGHT SCORE EVENT Kingsford Forest Park 30/11/05Organiser's comments

Thanks to all who made it through miserable conditions to christen our new night league. The fog, snow and damp certainly made the event a challenge. Having of course underestimated the time to put the controls out and taken too much time struggling to erect the tent, the last few controls went out in the dark. I very nearly gave up on the last one, as I desperately searched for the control site in the fog.

I think the tent was well worth the struggle as it provided a focal point for the event and a place to socialise. The heater was great for anyone hanging around, like me. I will try and bring a tent, lighting and heating to all these night events. A special word of thanks to Dennis Mews, who came along to help out even though he was not running, without his help the tent would not have been erected and the start procedure would definitely have been a bit more chaotic.

For the event itself, I tried to give a mixture of easy controls to help the newer Night people, especially for relocation, and some that required a bit more thinking about. Kingsford lent itself perfectly to this type of event. I think on a clearer brighter evening it may just have been possible to collect all the controls. The final scoring was very close indeed, with Dave Williams just beating Chris McSweeney. (I have applied NSL rules and given myself and future organiser's 10 points. Hope you do not mind)

From the comments I heard at the finish most people seemed to enjoy the event, it made collecting the last of the controls in at first light worthwhile. Thanks.
